

CENTER FOR THE STUDY OF BROOKLYN

Brooklyn Research Collaborative Breakfast

Are you doing research about or in Brooklyn? Please join us at the first meeting of the interdisciplinary Brooklyn Research Collaborative. Share past, current, or future ideas for research projects that focus on Brooklyn (and New York City more broadly) in this informal conversation. Learn about what your colleagues are researching across disciplines, identify opportunities to collaborate on grants, and discover how the Center for the Study of Brooklyn might help you advance your research and teaching agenda.

Friday, November 15, 2019

10 a.m. - noon

State Lounge, 5th floor

Brooklyn College Student Center
Campus Road and East 27th Street

Breakfast will be served

RSVP to Emily Tumpson Molina (etmolina@brooklyn.cuny.edu). If you are unable to attend but interested in attending a future session, please send an email.

Co-sponsored by the Wolfe Institute for the Humanities
