ANNUAL REPORT

BROOKLYN COLLEGE FOUNDATION

DEAR ALUMNI AND FRIENDS,

As the incoming chair of the Brooklyn College Foundation, I look forward to building upon the impressive growth of my predecessor, Edwin Cohen '62, and the strategic vision of President Michelle J. Anderson. Strengthened by the active engagement of the men and women who serve on the foundation board, we are now poised to explore new opportunities for Brooklyn College that will enable us to further our historic commitment to our students, our faculty, and the borough.

Our current annual report underscores the many ways alumni are critical to our endeavors. This year, we highlight five students who have directly benefitted from the generosity of our alumni, friends, and other donors. Ultimately, the stories of the students would not be possible without the strong ties and support that Brooklyn College engenders from its immediate and extended campus community.

I join my fellow trustees and the entire Brooklyn College community in offering our thanks to the many people whose generosity helps spark the imaginations of our students through enhanced academic opportunities and experiences.

Sincerely yours,

Evan Silverstein '76
Chair, Brooklyn College Foundation

DEAR ALUMNI AND FRIENDS OF BROOKLYN COLLEGE,

In my second year at Brooklyn College, I am inspired by our extraordinary students.

Just last week, I met with members of SOFEDUP, the Student Organization for Every Disability United for Progress, to discuss the educational challenges that students with disabilities face and how Brooklyn College can do more to make our campus welcoming and accessible.

These are the same students who last year worked with the Brooklyn College administration, the Mayor's Office for People with Disabilities, and the NYC Department of Transportation to establish a new Access-a-Ride stop on Bedford Avenue just outside the gates of Brooklyn College. Each semester, these students work with professionals in the Office of Student Affairs to get the notetakers they need to take classes. In meetings, they make specific recommendations to me for how to better mark the campus for students with visual impairments who use white canes to get around. They are not just students learning at Brooklyn College; they are actively working to advocate for their physical needs and to make the campus more responsive to them. I am impressed by their commitment.

The stories of five other students make up this year's annual report, and I think you will be impressed by their commitments as well. Their journeys at Brooklyn College include the joy they get from learning, the influence of their professors, and the role private support plays in helping them reach their academic and career goals.

The Brooklyn College Foundation is critical to our continued efforts to improve our students' future. Together we will continue to strengthen academic programs, enhance student access and success, and increase the value of a Brooklyn College degree. Our work will ensure that all of our students achieve a bright and rewarding future.

I am grateful to the Brooklyn College Foundation for its essential role in the health of the college and in the strength of its future. I look forward to continuing to work with you to help all our students flourish.

Sincerely,

This year, the Brooklyn College Foundation Annual Report tracks five students pursuing their academic and professional goals. They come from our individual schools—the Murray Koppelman School of Business, the School of Education, the School of Humanities and Social Sciences, the School of Behavioral and Natural Sciences, and the School of Visual, Media and Performing Arts. Their stories examine their experiences on and off campus, and illustrate how Brooklyn College has widened their perspectives, cultivated new ideas, and encouraged them to investigate all their career options.

Our students were drawn to the college by the reputation of our individual programs, believing they would give them the knowledge and training to succeed. They entered with set objectives. One thought about being a doctor, another a musician. One pursued acting for several years, another wanted to be a high school science teacher but wasn't sure she could afford the necessary graduate degree. At some point, though, they explored new interests and received support to consider various professions. They met inspiring professors, were guided by knowledgeable academic advisers, and took advantage of programs that offered the opportunity to discover different fields.

Our donors played a critical role in their transformations. They funded scholarships and provided internships, and mentoring and research programs that enabled our students to find their true passion. In doing so, our donors offered our students what they, themselves, gained at Brooklyn College—the prospect of exploring beyond their predetermined boundaries and achieving a rewarding life.

MURRAY KOPPELMAN SCHOOL OF BUSINESS

Brooklyn is a long way from Ukraine, where Valeriya Zelenyak was born. She and her mother came to America when Valeriya was three and settled in Bensonhurst, her mother working as a medical assistant and Valeriya attending local public schools.

When it came time for college, Valeriya enrolled as a pre-med student at City College. Her interest in medicine, however, didn't survive a rocky encounter with freshman biology. "I realized that's not what I wanted to do," she says. Recalling that she "always had a knack for business," she transferred to the Murray Koppelman School of Business at Brooklyn College and enrolled in the accounting program.

Valeriya has thrived at Koppelman, starting almost as soon as she set foot on campus and attended the Magner Career Center's Accounting Boot Camp. "I learned what it takes to be recruited by a Big Four accounting firm," she says. "Boot Camp got the ball rolling for me."

The ball kept rolling with an invitation to join the Student Leadership Council, whose main function is to connect students to resources at the college and opportunities in the business world. "The council is what made my college experience amazing," she says. "It's where I built my community."

Valeriya's performance during her first year on the council so impressed Dean Willie Hopkins that he tapped her to take over as its president. At first, she wasn't sure she could do the job. But her participation that summer in the Lorraine Laighold Leadership Academy reassured her. "I realized why I was chosen," she says. "I was ready."

Valeriya is quick to thank the Magner Career Center, especially its associate director for internships and employee relations, Andre Fontenelle, who spent hours conducting and critiquing mock interviews with her.

The practice paid off. Valeriya scored a summer 2017 internship with PricewaterhouseCoopers. To the surprise of no one at Koppelman, she impressed her employers with her performance. She starts full time at the firm in January 2019.

"What differentiates Brooklyn College from other schools is grit. Most of us don't come from super-polished backgrounds. Brooklyn College has taught me how to act in the professional world."

FAITH CRAWFORD

SCHOOL OF EDUCATION

Faith Crawford has been training to be a teacher her entire life.

“I have a sister and many cousins, all one to three years younger than I am,” she notes. “I’d learn something in school, then teach it to everybody else.”

Faith graduated in December from the Brooklyn College School of Education with a master’s degree in secondary education in biological sciences; she started postgraduate studies in January. Meanwhile, she’s in her second semester teaching science at Midwood High School.

She inherited her industriousness from her mother, a financial services professional who supports Faith, her sister, and her grandmother.

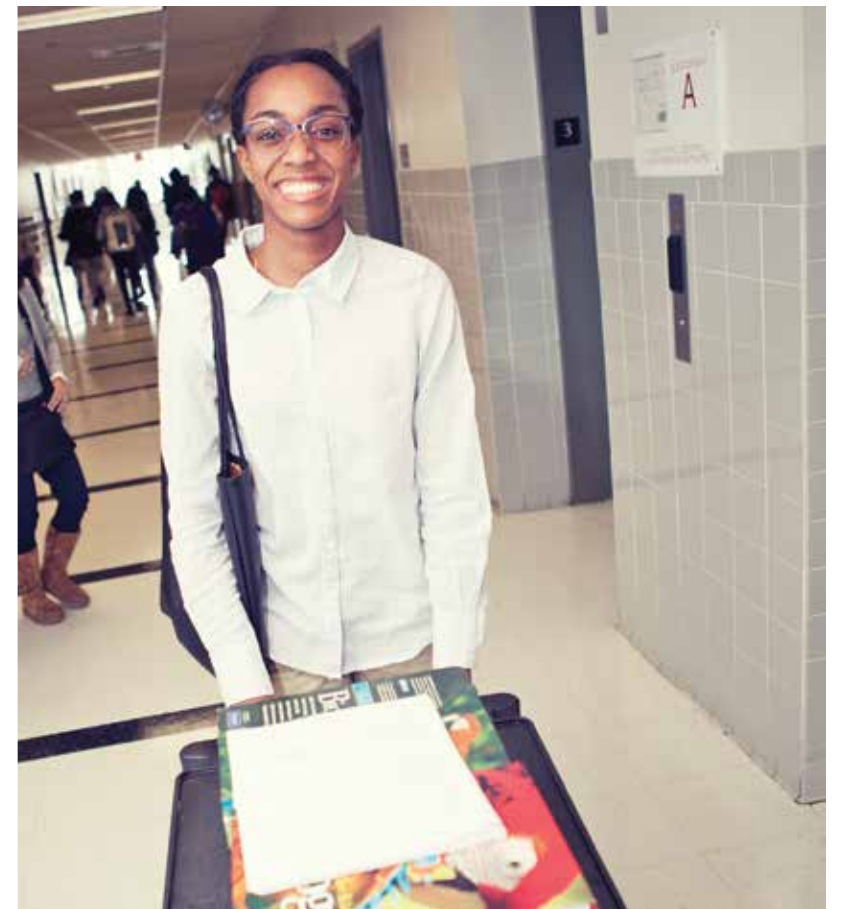

At Midwood, Faith is always looking to improve her teaching. One way she reaches her students is through games; a favorite focus is on vocabulary. “Biology has its own language,” she says. “There are foreign-sounding words students have never heard before. And there are everyday words with different meanings. When students say theory they think it’s an idea, a suggestion. But once they learn about the scientific method, they find out that a theory, such as the theory of evolution, is something that’s been tested and proven time and time again.”

The recipient of the Peter Greenman Scholarship, which financed her graduate degree, Faith feels the school has given her an enormous advantage beyond the classroom. “The professors are passionate about helping you be the best teacher you can be.”

Looking to the future, Faith plans to continue what she’s doing now. “Ideally, I’ll be a biology teacher,” she says. “Just slightly better at it, because experience tends to do that.”

Asked if she’s a role model to her students, Faith responds, “I don’t know if I’m a role model. But I like to think I’m setting a good example.”

“The professors are passionate about helping you be the best teacher you can be, not only for yourself but for your students as well. That’s rare.”

TANYA EVERETT

SCHOOL OF HUMANITIES AND SOCIAL SCIENCES

Tanya Everett majored in anthropology at Columbia University, but she had a passion for acting. After her 2006 graduation she pursued her first love, going on the road with a children’s theater company. She decided to stay in New York the next year as a member of the Negro Ensemble Company.

“It was the first company that embraced me and helped me find my way in the theater community,” she says. She has acted in numerous plays over the last decade, including the Classical Theatre of Harlem’s outdoor production of Shakespeare’s The Tempest.

Tanya turned to writing in 2010, when she and a friend, working on a play together, concluded that its female characters needed expanding. The friend suggested she write them. “I don’t write,” Tanya replied. “But you could,” he said.

She hasn’t stopped writing since.

Tanya received a Truman Capote Literary Fellowship when she was accepted into the M.F.A. playwriting program. She is currently focusing her talents on a series of plays about gentrification. The first, We Were Never Meant to Survive, is set in East Harlem. The second, now in progress, takes place in New Orleans after Hurricane Katrina. “I’m looking at how we are undermining the ability of people of color to survive in urban centers. As a woman of color, I ask, ‘What does it mean to decide that people are valuable only if we can move them out?’”

With Mac Wellman, the director of the playwriting program, Tanya is studying Afro-futurism—an aesthetic featuring Afrocentric narratives with a futuristic element to them. She’s also working on reimagining historical narratives with African and Afro-diasporic people at their center. “If we don’t have African, African-American, Afro-disaporic people in narratives,” she says, “we won’t be there. I had a friend—this has stuck with me—who was about to have a son. And she was saying to me, ‘I’m afraid to bring my black son into this world.’ I don’t think I’ll ever forget that. Putting African people at the heart of the narrative is saying that we are resilient and won’t be eliminated. That we will find a way to thrive.”

“I think part of the playwriting program for me will be to see different styles of theater, different styles of writing.”

JESSICA

SCHOOL OF NATURAL AND BEHAVIORAL SCIENCES

Jessica Andersen didn't always want to become a doctor. She began college majoring in music education at the University of Hartford's Hartt School. Science called to her, and so she graduated from Hartford in 2014 with a bachelor of science in acoustical engineering and music.

But she wasn't inspired by the job she landed at an acoustical consulting firm. What opened a new world was teaching yoga. An anatomy class for yoga teachers sparked another realization: "I'm fascinated by the science of the human body, and humbled by the trust my students give me. And then it clicked." Looking to study the life sciences in earnest, Jessica was drawn to Brooklyn College by its stellar reputation. She started with a summer course in anatomy and physiology and, that fall, decided to commit. In the spring, she was encouraged by Serafina D'Agostino, in the pre-health advisement office, to apply for the Michael Garil Memorial Summer Internship Fund and was able to spend two months at the Dana-Farber Cancer Institute in Boston.

Jessica's most meaningful activity at Dana-Farber was shadowing two senior oncologists. "The doctor-patient relationship is such a sacred one," she says. "So much trust is involved, so much vulnerability. Many patients are terminal. Or they're newly diagnosed, with no idea what the disease will mean for their lives."

This year, Jessica is part of Assistant Professor Guillermo Gerona-Navarro's research team working on developing therapeutic compounds for the treatment of cancer. And she continues to teach yoga, leading a weekly class for mental health patients at New York-Presbyterian Brooklyn Methodist Hospital.

"I have a lot of diverse interests," she notes. "Brooklyn College has given me an environment to explore them. What's more, I've found teachers and mentors who have recognized my strengths and directed me toward them. I'm incredibly thankful."

SCHOOL OF VISUAL, MEDIA AND PERFORMING ARTS

Christian Fernandez, a native of Cudjoe Key, Florida, majored in film and media studies as an undergraduate at the University of Tampa. He looked at several graduate film schools, then heard about the new Barry Feirstein Graduate School of Cinema, located at Steiner Studios at the Brooklyn Navy Yard. After visiting the school and talking to the director, Jonathan Wacks, he was accepted into the school's inaugural class.

"It felt like something that was meant to be," he says.

Over the next two years he drew upon the school's unique resources situated on a working studio lot in New York City. He was afforded the opportunity to work with professional actors on the East Coast's largest soundstage complex with industry standard equipment. While filming a domestic drama on location on Long Island, he grappled with real-world challenges.

Christian's thesis film owes much to a chance find: He and his father found an abandoned raft on their way home from a fishing excursion. He had been thinking of making a film about Cubans who sought asylum in Florida. This raft, evidently, had been used for just that purpose. He and his dad towed it back to their home.

His film, Este Niño Lindo (This Cute Child), written in Spanish with English subtitles, concerns a young girl making the perilous journey with her older brother. He shot the movie in his family's backyard and nearby waters. The film presented specific challenges, including shooting on water and working with a child actor. A friend served as lifeguard, sharing duties with Christian's father.

"Making these films has been ridiculously valuable," he says. "You can read all you want, sit in a class all you want. But you have to do it. I feel completely competent and capable to do this as a career. I feel like a professional now."

“Our family created the Dante and Ardemia Negro Memorial Scholarship to celebrate Dante’s extraordinary legacy at Brooklyn College as professor of French and Italian language and literature, as administrator, and as performing arts center director. Ardemia, his wife, inspired him throughout his 48 years at the college. A tribute to a Renaissance man of excellence and integrity, the scholarship gives deserving candidates needed assistance to pursue careers in foreign languages or the performing arts.”

COMMEMORATIVE BRICK PLAZA

Seen daily by students, faculty members, and visitors, the custom-engraved bricks at the entrance of the West Quad Center, the newest building on campus, offer alumni and friends a novel way to honor loved ones, celebrate an event, or simply enshrine one's thoughts for future generations. Proceeds support the foundation's vital annual fund. With gratitude, we recognize the following friends who purchased commemorative bricks between July 1, 2016, and June 30, 2017.

BOARD COMMITTEES

Executive Committee

The executive committee comprises all officers and committee chairs, and the president of Brooklyn College. The executive committee has all the powers of the board when the board is not in session. The executive committee considers key recommendations from the board committees listed below and sets the agenda for the full board meeting.

Audit and Finance Committee

Anthony Castellanos '85, Chair

The audit and finance committee selects and works with the foundation's auditors, Loeb & Troper, to ensure that the foundation continues to meet nationally accepted auditing standards. In addition to reviewing the annual financial statements and budget, the committee examines employee policies and procedures to ensure foundation compliance with state and federal regulations and CUNY best practices.

Investment Committee

Martin Sass '63, Chair

The investment committee is charged with prudently building the foundation's endowment fund to secure the long-term future of Brooklyn College. Committee members are responsible for the development and periodic review of the fund's investment policies and guidelines, and for asset allocation to various investment strategies to achieve appropriate diversification of the fund's investments based on its needs and objectives. The committee selects, meets with, and manages a variety of outside professional investment managers in consultation with an outside adviser and monitoring firm.

Development Committee

Marge Wagner '69, Chair

The development committee provides oversight of the fundraising activities of the foundation, including monitoring the staffing and goal-setting of the development office. Members provide critical advice on alumni research, cultivation, solicitation, and stewardship.

Governance and Nominating Committee

Myron Kandel '52, Chair

The governance and nominating committee is charged with ensuring best-practice governance of the foundation and continued development of the foundation's board of trustees. Responsibilities include directing research for prospective board members and providing recommendations for new board candidates, officers of the foundation, and honorary governors.

Planned Giving Committee

Sam E. Beller '59 and Stella V. Lagudis '82, Co-chairs

The planned giving committee provides guidance and technical expertise on planned gifts in the form of bequests, charitable gift annuities, charitable remainder trusts, life insurance, gifts of stock, and real estate to the Brooklyn College Foundation.

HOW YOU CAN SUPPORT BROOKLYN COLLEGE

The Brooklyn College Foundation relies on the generosity of individuals, foundations, and corporations to help further the college's mission of providing high-quality, affordable education to our students. There are many ways that donors can support our work.

The Annual Fund

Gifts to the annual fund provide critical unrestricted operating support, making it possible for the foundation to respond to the immediate and evolving needs of Brooklyn College. Annual fund donations are used to support scholarships, internship stipends, and travel abroad; funding for faculty research; and school improvements. Unrestricted annual fund gifts are essential and benefit more than 17,500 students each year.

The Boylan Society

The Boylan Society is the Brooklyn College Foundation's monthly giving program. When you join the Boylan Society, you authorize the foundation to receive a monthly tax-deductible gift from your checking account or by credit card. This is a wonderful opportunity to provide dependable, enduring, and reliable support to your alma mater. You will no longer need to be concerned with renewal payments or reminder mailings. And since automatic monthly gifts do not require outreach efforts to secure, they are the most efficient way to sustain the level of academic excellence at Brooklyn College.

Corporations and Foundations

The Brooklyn College Foundation works with faculty and college leadership to identify, build, and steward relationships with corporations and foundations to ensure long-term and mutually beneficial partnerships. We aim to understand the needs of corporations and foundations and connect them with appropriate solutions at Brooklyn College. With a world-class faculty, a diverse and talented student body, and strong academic and co-curricular programs, Brooklyn College offers significant investment opportunities.

Establishing a Restricted Fund

A restricted fund helps to meet the needs of Brooklyn College and our students while reflecting the specific interests or desires of a donor. Restricted funds may support student scholarships, awards, and travel stipends as well as faculty research and endowed professorships. Establishing and naming a restricted fund can be a special way to honor or memorialize a loved one's interests or accomplishments, honor a former student and/or faculty member, or encourage students in a particular academic area. The Brooklyn College Foundation welcomes donations to establish and name new restricted funds as well as donations of any size in support of already existing restricted funds.

Gifts Online

It is now easier than ever to make a donation to Brooklyn College. Just log on to the Brooklyn College Foundation website, www.brooklyncollegefoundation.org, and use our secure connection to make a tax-deductible gift with your credit or debit card with a MasterCard, American Express, Visa, or Discover logo. The Legacy Society: Planned Gifts

Members of the Legacy Society share our vision of academic excellence for future generations by making a provision for the college in their estate planning. The Brooklyn College Foundation offers several future-oriented investment opportunities, including charitable gift annuities, charitable remainder trusts, or life insurance. Legacy Society members may also make planned gifts in the form of a bequest.

Naming Opportunities

Brooklyn College offers a wide spectrum of naming opportunities. Individuals or groups of donors may select from a menu of naming options ranging from commemorative bricks in front of our West Quad Center, to benches near our beloved lily pond, to classrooms or lecture halls around campus. These are very special opportunities to leave behind a legacy at the college while contributing to the success of future Brooklyn College students.

Tributes and Memorials

The Brooklyn College Foundation Tribute and Memorial Program was created in response to alumni requests as a means to offer special recognition to those who have made a difference in their lives. A donation to the Tribute and Memorial Program gives you the opportunity to honor a loved one, friend, business associate, or caregiver. Gifts have been made to commemorate special occasions, including birthdays, anniversaries, and retirement. The program is a meaningful way to express feelings of remembrance or gratitude.
